Aims and Scope

GEOFORUM is an international, multidisciplinary journal, global in outlook, integrative in approach and policy oriented. Its primary concern is with all aspects of the management of the human environment; an area of study broadly defined to encompass urban and regional planning, industrial development, resource allocation and the management of physical environmental systems. The journal is published four times a year and provides a forum for rapid publication of original research papers, reports and reviews.

The Executive Editors particularly wish to encourage:

1. Publication of the results of applied research:
   (a) Assessments of the impact of technological and economic developments on all aspects of the human environment.
   (b) Studies of policy — its formulation, implementation and effectiveness.
   (c) Analysis of resource and environmental potentialities.
   (d) Development of assessment and evaluation techniques.
2. Publication of results of research of an international character:
   (a) Research findings of co-operative work by international agencies or research institutes.
   (b) Comparative assessments of problems and policies in different economic, social, political and physical environments.
3. Publication of interdisciplinary research, particularly that which promotes better understanding of the complex interrelationships that exist within and between the physical and socio-economic systems, and which helps forge links between the natural and social sciences.
   (a) Physical constraints on policy/management options.
   (b) Socio-economic, political and legal limits to physical potentials.
